FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Vote for Bradley International Airport as one of the best airports in the U.S.

Windsor Locks, CONN – April 19, 2024 – The Connecticut Airport Authority is pleased to announce that voting is now underway for Condé Nast Traveler’s annual Readers’ Choice Awards and Bradley International Airport (BDL) is once again in the running to be named one of the “Best Airports in the Country” for 2024. For the last seven consecutive years, BDL has made Condé Nast Traveler’s list of top ten airports.

This year’s voting comes as BDL grows its list of nonstop flights to more than 40 destinations among 11 different airlines and makes new concession additions and upgrades inside the terminal. Significant construction projects are also underway that will greatly enhance the flow and functionality of the airport with a new baggage screening facility, additional gate space, and new corridors adjacent to each concourse that will allow arriving passengers a faster and more direct route to baggage claim and ground transportation.

Passengers can vote for BDL by visiting cntraveler.com/vote. Once on the site, simply choose “airports” and then select “Hartford (BDL)” from the list of nominees. Airports are rated on design, layout, food, shopping, accessibility and more.

Voting is open until June 30, 2024, and only takes a few minutes to complete. The winners will appear on the Condé Nast Traveler website this fall and in the November print issue. Anyone who votes can also enter to win a 13-day journey through Antarctica or a 15-day tour of the Great Lakes, courtesy of Condé Nast Traveler.
